Country's Progressives Gather in Chicago To Voice Support for President Roosevelt

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—(UP)—A conference to work out means of swinging thousands of progressive votes to a presidential candidate — certainly to President Roosevelt — opened today behind the closed doors of the Roosevelt room of a loop hotel.

Most observers believed the name of the room indicated the trend of the conference, called by national liberal leaders to decide joint action in the campaign.

Presence of Sen. Hugo L. Black, Alabama, and Rep. Maury Maverick, Texas, New Deal Democrats, strengthened the belief that the conference would endorse President Roosevelt.

The two southern Democrats showed up unexpectedly. Sen.

Robert M. LaFollette, Wisconsin Progressive who engineered the meeting, refused to release the entire invitation list before the session opened. Other details also remained a secret.

LaFollette in Charge

"I can't say who will be here until after the meeting has been called to order," LaFollette said. "Neither can I predict what action will be taken. I cannot presume to speak for the conference."

Senator Black was more explicit.

"I don't see how the conference could do anything else than endorse President Roosevelt," he drawled.

Maverick, happy over his victory in the recent Texas primary, said he would campaign for President Roosevelt and added that he was "proud of the company" he was in at the conference.

Sen. Elmer Benson, Farmer-Labor leader of Minnesota, was sure the meeting would end in a declaration for Mr. Roosevelt.

"I'd be hundreds of miles away if I didn't think so," he declared.

Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York and Sen. George W. Norris of Nebraska, who signed the call for the conference, previously had committed themselves for Mr. Roosevelt.

La Guardia came from New York with Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the New York Power authority, and A. A. Berle, Sr., New York attorney. Other easterners included Maurice Davidson and Edward K. Kennedy, both of New York, and James G.

Blauvelt, Ridgewood, N. J.

The far west was expected to be represented by Sen. Homer T. Bone, D., Washington and George T. David, San Francisco.

LaFollette's Wisconsin Progressives were well represented. They included Gov. Philip F. LaFollette, brother of the senator, and Reps. George J. Schneider, Harry Sauthoff, Gardner Withrow and Gerald Boileau.

In addition to Benson, other Minnesota Farmer-Labor leaders attending included Gov. Hjalmar Peterson and Rep. Paul Kvale.

LaFollette wasn't sure the conference deliberations would be concluded today.

"We have a radio broadcast at 9:30 p. m. (EST) and if we're not through then we'll probably continue the conference tomorrow," he said.

OHIO DEMOCRATS GATHER TO OPEN FALL CAMPAIGN

Delegates Expected to Vote Support for Davey Sales Tax Repeal Plea

WEST CHOSEN KEYNOTER

Governor May Answer Words of John Bricker

COLUMBUS, Sept. 11.—(UP)—Ohio Republicans had their day at Mt. Sterling yesterday. Ohio Democrats were to have their day in Columbus, today.

Democrats under the leadership of Governor Martin L. Davey, candidate for re-election, met in state convention here today to dispose of such business as the adoption of a state platform and selection of 26 presidential electors for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket, and to hear two guest speakers, Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky and Governor Paul V. McNutt of Indiana.

The Ohio Democratic platform drafted by an unofficial committee headed by Earl H. Hanefield, state director of agriculture, was

POLL BOOKS ISSUED

Books for a poll of wards and precincts were issued Thursday night at a meeting of the Pickaway County Democratic Central Committee in the headquarters in the American hotel. The information obtained from the poll will be used for a permanent record. Thirty-two men attended the meeting.

Submitted to Gov. Davey and Francis Poulson, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, last night and will be reported to the convention this afternoon.

To Back Tax Repeal

One of the main planks in the party platform is expected to evolve from the governor's endorsement of the proposal to repeal the state sales tax on food for home consumption. This plank must be carefully worded to avoid the appearance of similarity to the Republican endorsement of the same proposal, voiced by Attorney General John W. Bricker at the formal opening of the G.O.P. campaign at Mt. Sterling.

Bricker, candidate for governor on the Republican ticket, said he had advocated repeal of the sales tax on food for home use months ago — before Gov. Davey had announced his stand on this issue, which has been one of the liveliest points in what was a rather dull campaign until yesterday.

Gov. McNutt's talk was the feature of the morning program of the Democratic convention.

Poulson directed preliminary convention organization. Charles West, under secretary of the interior and President Roosevelt's liaison man in Ohio, was to be the keynote speaker. William G. Pickrel of Dayton, former lieutenant Fitzpatrick's Printery, E. Main street, was successful bidder Thursday for printing Pickaway county ballots for the November election. Four bids were submitted.

Members of the board met Thursday night to consider the bids. The deadline for bids was Thursday noon.

The board will meet Sept. 16 to consider petitions on tax levies or bond issues that may be filed before the deadline on Sept. 15.

Other bids were submitted by the C. News Press, Paul A. Johnson and the News Publishing Co., Williamsport.

Article on King Deleted

COPIES of the Aug. 31 issue of Time magazine are appearing on British newstands minus pages 19 and 20. Newsdealers said the pages had been cut out by a news distributing agency because they contained an article referring to King Edward VIII and Mrs. Ernest Simpson, formerly of Baltimore, who was among the king's guests on his recent Mediterranean yachting cruise. Page 21, which was permitted to remain in the magazine, however, displayed photographs of both King Edward and Mrs. Simpson, as shown above.

King Edward Dieting To Retain Waist-line

VIENNA, Sept. 11.—(UP)—King Edward of Great Britain, long the world's leader in men's fashions, has "gone on a diet" to keep the royal waist-line down to its usual slenderness, according to close associates.

The king, vacationing in Austria, worked out the details of his diet himself.

Since following it, the king has told friends that he has lost several pounds and that his health and efficiency have improved 50 per cent.

The king's diet is:

Breakfast—Fruit, toast and tea with milk.

Lunch—Fruit (usually apples) and tea.

Dinner—Fish or meat and green vegetables.

His majesty has a new rule never to drink alcohol before evening. Then he usually takes whisky and soda rather than cocktails. He carries with him his own special blend of tea.

"The cause of most ailments is overeating," the king is reported to have told friends. "Most men eat too much."

CANADA REFUSES MRS. HAUPTMANN ENTRY TO LAND

MONTREAL, Sept. 11.—(UP)—Mrs. Bruno Richard Hauptmann, widow of the kidnaper of the son of Charles A. Lindbergh, waited impatiently at the Quebec-United States border today for a ruling on her appeal against a ban against her entry into Canada.

Yesterday border officials refused her passage across the border because she lacked proper credentials, was unable to show proof of United States citizenship and could give no satisfactory reason for her visit to Canada.

Today, her attorney accompanying her on the projected trip to Montreal, entered an appeal against the refusal to admit his client.

The appeal was being considered by immigration department officials here although it was indicated that the department probably would not reverse the decision of border officials.

Mrs. Hauptmann arrived at the immigration office at Cantic, Quebec, in a large automobile and told Inspector A. Lemoine that she was on a "personal and business visit to Montreal."

KANSAS CITY'S BOARD OF TRADE LOSES ITS PLEA

Measure Voted as Amendment to Grain Futures Law Given New Life

GOES INTO EFFECT SUNDAY

Trading Placed Under U. S. Regulation by Bill

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 11.—(UP) The Commodities Exchange Act was held constitutional today by Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves in refusing a temporary injunction to prohibit its enforcement.

The Kansas City Board of Trade had requested the injunction.

Judge Reeves ruled in effect that it was too early to challenge the act effectively. It does not go into effect until Sept. 13.

The Board of Trade contended the act was unconstitutional and that its provisions were so vague that operators would be unable to interpret them and so would be in constant danger of prosecution for inadvertent violations.

Regulates Trade

To the plaintiffs' contention that the act was unconstitutional because it undertook the regulate trade not in interstate commerce, Judge Reeves replied: "It must be ruled that the act is constitutional and that the plaintiffs are not entitled to an order predicated upon the invalidity of the act."

"The only question is whether the regulations . . . are so onerous as to fall under the condemnation of the due process provisions of the fifth amendment."

"If and when regulatory measures are applied which may seem too onerous to be lawful, provision is made for the protection of the Board of Trade."

"Moreover, it will then be time to complain, and not in advance of the promulgation of such regulations."

Voted as Amendment

The act, passed by the last session of congress as an amendment to the Grain Futures Act, broadens the original act to bring under federal regulation along with grain trading in other commodities exchange board, set up to administer the law.

In the only other court test of the law to date a Chicago federal judge also denied application for a temporary injunction.

The Kansas City Board of Trade announced it would appeal immediately to the U. S. circuit court of appeals from Judge Reeves' decision.

TWO MEN KILLED NEAR BELLAIRE AS PLANE FALLS

BELLAIRE, Sept. 11.—(UP)—Fred A. Herit, 26, operator of a Vallejo, Cal., flying field, and William Fournier, 26, U. S. Navy, were killed when Herit's plane crashed in a take off from a private landing field here today.

They were on their way to Fournier's home in Washington, D. C. William Phillips, owner of the landing field, said Herit had intended to demonstrate the method of bringing a plane out of a spin.

HEALTH FORCES DISTRICT NURSE TO RESIGN POST

Miss Phelps Sends Statement to Mayor Graham Stating Decision to Retire

Resignation of Miss Charlotte Phelps, district health nurse for the last 24 years, was on file Friday with Mayor W. J. Graham. It becomes effective Oct. 1.

Her resignation follows: "President and members of the Board of Health of the city of Circleville. As I find it will be impossible for me to keep on with the work on account of my health I am sending my resignation as city public health nurse to take effect Oct. 1, 1936.

"I want to thank you, Mr. Graham, and each member of the board, also Mr. Mavis for cooperation and interest in all my work here and hope it may continue more successfully in the future."

Came Here From Cleveland

Miss Phelps came to Circleville as health nurse on Sept. 9, 1912, after she had done private nursing and public health work in Cleveland. She was graduated from Jenesse hospital, New York, in February, 1897. She was born and reared in Canandaigua, N. Y.

Miss Phelps has assisted at approximately 1,100 births in Circleville.

Mayor Graham said no date has been set for a meeting of the board of health to consider the resignation and the employment of a successor.

Council was requested at its last meeting to arrange part-time employment or a pension for Miss Phelps. The request was referred to the finance committee and city solicitor.

LUMBER DEALERS CITE PROSPERITY DURING SUMMER

Sixteen lumbermen from District No. 4 of the Ohio Association of Retail Lumber Dealers exchanged expressions of business prosperity Thursday evening when they gathered for their monthly meeting in the American Hotel. The meeting was preceded by a dinner.

L. G. Barger of Hillsboro presided and announced the next meeting would be held at the home of Max Thomas, Jeffersonville, in October.

The building industry, dormant for five years, has been progressing rapidly, the lumbermen declared, throughout the entire district. Circleville building has been the best in many years.

T. O. Gilliland of the Circleville Lumber Co., a leading figure in the association organization, was in charge of arrangements for the Thursday conference. Other lumbermen were present from Hillsboro, Greenfield, Chillicothe, Washington C. H., Jeffersonville, Frankfort, and Wilmington.

GERMAN ATTACK ON SOVIET MAY CAUSE FRICTION

LONDON, Sept. 11.—(UP)—Fear was expressed today in responsible quarters that the attack on Soviet Russian leaders by Doctor Paul Joseph Goebbels at the Nazi congress yesterday might result in a diplomatic break between Russia and Germany and the consequent cancellation of the forthcoming Locarno conference.

Although Russia would not be a party to the conference, a break in relations with Germany would so upset European stability that the meeting would become virtually impossible. France, for instance, is one of the most important prospective participants—and France has a defensive alliance with Russia.

Britain has just invited Germany, France, Italy and Belgium to London, Oct. 19 to discuss the revision of Locarno in view of Germany's reoccupation of the demilitarized zone.

DETROIT POLICE WITHOUT CLUES IN BABY'S CASE

DETROIT, Sept. 11.—(UP)—Frankly without clues, detectives turned wearily back into the vicinity of Clark Park and the baby's home today in search for 20-month-old Harry Browne, now missing for nearly six days.

Hope that the child would be found alive was expressed by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Browne, and Deputy Chief of Detectives William J. Collins, under whose supervision the search for the kidnapped baby has been conducted.

The detective's optimism was based on the latest reports that two men had met a stranger with the Browne baby as recently as last Wednesday, near the humble home of his parents. The men, both questioned by police, were Herman Semande, and Arthur Arndt, residents of the Browne neighborhood.

EFFORT TO BURN CRUISER AIRED BY CAPT. DUNN

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(UP)—Nails driven into an electric cable by saboteurs caused one fire on the U. S. Cruiser Indianapolis, Capt. Charles A. Dunn of the Brooklyn Navy Yard said today, and other nails were discovered before further fires broke out on the warship while it was being overhauled here.

Capt. Dunn, industrial manager of the navy yard, revealed the fire caused by the sabotage broke out on Aug. 25 in an auxiliary cable. The fire was confined to the cable and there was no damage to the ship itself.

An inspection ordered by the navy yard brought the discovery of two more nails driven into the same cable where it entered a boiler room. Another nail had been driven into an obsolete cable "that under no conditions was to be used."

There are no clues as to the identity of the person or persons who attempted to disable or destroy the ship, Capt. Dunn said, but he indicated that navy workmen were not suspected.

500 AMERICANS REMAIN IN SPAIN AS SHIPS LEAVE

Hull Orders Steamers to Remain in Ports of Other Countries

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(UP)—United States warships steamed out of Spanish waters today, leaving behind in the war-torn republic almost 500 Americans who chose to disregard this government's urgent insistence that they seek places of safety.

Only the protection of this country's diplomatic corps remained for American nationals after the United States, hewing to the line of its strict neutrality policy, withdrew the armed ships which previously had evacuated more than 1,000 U. S. citizens from Spain.

In Nearby Ports

The warships were sent to ports of nearby countries, and remained ready to return to Spain at the call of diplomatic or consular officials. The move was interpreted, however, as emphasizing the warnings of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull that Americans who trade with belligerents or persist in remaining in Spain.

WARDEN DELAYS LEO HALL DEATH UNTIL TONIGHT

Man Who Slew Six May Be Given Chance Before Supreme Court

MOTHER'S PLEA DENIED

Attorneys Claim They Own Important Evidence

WALLA WALLA STATE PRISON, Wash., Sept. 11.—(UP)—Execution of Leo Hall, who murdered six persons at a beach house near Bremerton, March 27, 1934, was postponed until 11 p. m. (PST) tonight, a few minutes before the former theology student was to be led into the gallows chamber.

Warden John McCauley ordered the postponement in a dramatic move which came as the 34-year-old "mass murderer" was being given last religious condolences preparatory to his hanging which earlier had been delayed two hours.

Originally he was to have died at 12:10 a. m. PST. Shortly before midnight McCauley postponed the execution until 2 a. m. to allow time for arrival of Hall's Seattle attorney, Everett Butts, who asked for a last minute conference with the warden.

Governor Denies Plea
McCauley granted the second postponement to permit Hall's mother to reach here by plane from Olympia where she earlier appealed to Gov. Clarence D. Martin for a last-minute stay of execution. The governor refused her plea.

A second reason for the postponement, McCauley said, was to permit Hall's attorneys an additional opportunity to present new evidence which they claim to possess and which they said justifies an appeal to the United States Supreme court.

The murder victims of the condemned man, who mixed his theology studies with dock working, boxing and hockey playing, were: Frank Flider, retired Bremerton, capitalist and his wife; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Chenevert, vaudeville actors; Magnus Jordan and Bred Balcom.

All the bodies were mutilated. Chenevert's skull was crushed by 23 hammer blows, any one of which could have caused death.

The case was unsolved for a year and a half. Then, last October, Mrs. Peggy Peterson Paulos, attractive brunette, told Seattle Attorney Ralph Horr she accompanied Hall on what was to have been a house party robbery. When he started killing the victims, she said, she fled in terror.

CANBERRA (UP)—The depression has been sufficiently overcome in Australia to permit lowering of barriers that were raised originally to prevent too great an influx of alien job seekers.

THRILLS AROUND AFTER 10-YEAR BLINDNESS ENDS

SYDNEY (UP)—After ten years of total blindness, Roy K. Kendrick, of Bondi, suddenly recovered his sight while shaving.

Kendrick was blinded in a soccer match in 1926 when he was 22 years old and had reconciled himself to the doctors' verdict that he would never see again.

"When I was shaving," he said, "I felt a strange sensation in my eyes. I thought I could see my face in the mirror, but imagination has played some strange tricks on me in the last few years. I rushed out of my room and saw the sky—blue, with white clouds.

"Then I went back to finish my shaving. I dressed by touch in the way I have learned, and then went out into the street. It was all vague, but what I felt could not be described. Buildings I remember having passed scores of times. I could see them—and women dressed very differently from 10 years ago. I kept noticing things and reading advertisements—anything. Then I ran back to the hotel, over-joyed, laughing, crying and kissing everyone. I couldn't help it. It was difficult to focus at first, but I am getting used to my eyes again. When I want anything, my first impulse is to reach out to touch it rather than look."

TO PUMPKIN SHOW SOCIETY

FRIENDS: The suggestion that the horse show be removed from its East Main street site to a safer and much more convenient location is received with open arms by owners and lovers of fine animals. The Circuiter was one of the many who bit his upper-lip fearing that one or more of the performers would fall and be fatally injured, or its rider hurt. A suitable location for the horse show, and one that would please Pumpkin show visitors, would be the property owned by the Pickaway Dairy association on W. Main street. If suitable seating and lighting could be provided the place would be ideal. The horse show has become one of the outstanding events of the annual festival, and much credit for this popularity belongs to Elmer Wolf, who was one of the driving forces behind rejuvenation of the event. Mr. Wolf, aided this year by Robert Musser and others, has pledged that the 1936 horse show shall be the best in the show's history. More power to him in his effort. From indications many fine horses will be entered in the various events, PROVIDING A SUITABLE PLACE IS OBTAINED FOR THE HORSES TO PERFORM.

CIRCUITEER

TO AGED CELEBRATORS

FOLK: The right hands of hundreds of Pickaway county friends are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Owen W. Morris and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Conrad, Pickaway township and Ashville couples, respectively, who observed their golden wedding anniversaries last week-end. These residents have done much to make their respective communities proud of them.

CIRCUITEER

TO COON BROTHERS

BOYS: All of Pickaway county hails you for the prizes you won at the State Fair with your pumpkins and squashes. The exhibits you provided for fair visitors did much to advertise the Pumpkin Show. The Circuiter hopes you will have all your favorite pumpkins and squashes lined along North Court street during the week of Oct. 26.

CIRCUITEER

TO G. P. HUNSICKER

CHURCH WORKER: Re-election as superintendent of the Sunday School of your Williamsport Methodist church for the forty-sixth consecutive year is evidence of the high esteem with which you are held in your community. You have given many years of your life for the good of the church, and your efforts have been appreciated by the persons with whom you have associated. Not only have you done yeoman work in your own church, but the county Sunday School Association has been benefited by your services as secretary for nearly 50 years.

CIRCUITEER

TO SPORTSMEN

GENTLEMEN: Considerable time and money has been spent in Pickaway county this summer in the propagation of pheasants and rabbits for fall hunting, but no fish have been distributed in county streams. Propagation of game satisfies one group of sportsmen, but officials should not overlook the desires of another group interested only in angling. I suggest Pickaway county organizations make some effort to obtain more fish and build up some good fishing streams before raising more pheasants and rabbits. Then all sportsmen will be satisfied.

CIRCUITEER

TO REV. HARPER

MINISTER: Members of your congregation were pleased and so were scores of other Circleville residents when they learned you had been re-assigned to the Circleville charge. Your influence in this community has been good; you have strived, and have succeeded, to make your church one of the leading of the city in which it is located. May you serve many more years in First United Brethren, Circleville.

CIRCUITEER

TO COLLEGE STUDENTS

BOYS, GIRLS: Some of you have started to school, others are yet to go. The Circuiter urges that you make the best of your opportunities. The parents of many of you are sacrificing much to provide you a higher education, and it is your duty to them to do your best. Scores of high school graduates feel that a trip to college is merely a pleasure excursion, one in which they should wire home (collect) to dad for money, and more money. College is a stepping-stone to a successful business or professional career and it is up to you to strive for all it can offer you.

CIRCUITEER

TO RETAIL MERCHANTS

GENTLEMEN: Postponement of the opening of Fall Style Revue Week until Sept. 21, near Fall's first day, seems to meet the approval of all merchants. It will give them more time to arrange their displays of new merchandise and decorate exhibits for the parade on Wednesday, Sept. 23. It behooves every merchant to plan for this celebration. If properly managed it will bring large crowds to Circleville to acquaint shoppers with local stores not only for their fall shopping but for many seasons to come.

CIRCUITEER

TO MOTORISTS

DRIVERS: This is a warning and a plea. Circleville schools open next Monday with the enrollment expected to approximate 1,625 children. Many of these youngsters will be first-graders, inexperienced in crossing streets. Many are so full of vim and vigor that they will not carefully observe traffic lights and will dart from behind automobiles and trees in your path. Please drive as carefully as possible to protect the lives of our young ones.

World At A Glance

Commerce department information (its source is confidential but absolutely reliable) is to the effect that businessmen in Italy believe, and are much perturbed by the prospect, that Dictator Mussolini favors Italian intervention in Spain as a means of distracting his countrymen's discontent over economic conditions among his home folk.
The department's dispatch, of official origin, relates that, thus far, the Italian venture in Ethiopia has turned out altogether unsatisfactorily.
It all along has been suspected here that Il Duce undertook the conquest of Haile Selassie's realm less because he wanted it than as a means of diverting the Italian masses' attention from domestic to foreign affairs. It worked fairly well for awhile. Britain was bluffed. Ethiopia nominally was beaten. Italy temporarily was enthusiastic.
But the Ethiopians apparently are not prepared to stay vanquished. About 75,000 of them are reported still in arms, conducting vigorous guerrilla warfare. Present indications are that their pacification will be long drawn out and expensive.
GETTING TIRED OF IT
And Italy is getting tired of it.

It hasn't profited economically. In addition to its domestic pinch, it now has what promises to be an indefinitely prolonged colonial campaign on its hands. It also is beginning to wonder if Ethiopia is worth having, anyway.
Il Duce's censorship has bottled up the real facts for some time, but they are leaking out gradually. Benito needs a fresh counter-irritant.
That is what the commerce department learns of the situation.
MUNITIONS POURING IN?
That the Spanish loyalists and rebels alike are receiving enormous supplies and ammunition from abroad is evident.
Both sides have been spending them lavishly for weeks and neither side had an overly liberal store to begin with. Spain is not a munition producing country. It must import what it requires. Otherwise it must fall back upon cutlery. The Toledo blade is traditional. But this civil war apparently is being conducted with modern explosives. The belligerents are getting them from somewhere beyond their coasts and borders. Their neighbors may deny, as European countries,

CHAPTER 45
GAY HAD seen the painting of herself so often that it had grown meaningless; a mere blending of color and line, on canvas.
Now at the exhibition she saw it for what it was: the credo of Mark Vance's artistic conscience. He had painted his belief that outward beauty should be the sign of inner loveliness.
With fresh vision, Gay looked at the portrait from where she stood, unnoticed, in the doorway. She could see it clearly. It was a study in blue tones. In the silvery blue dress, she sat against a luminous background of deeper blue, flooded with radiant sunlight. Her eyes, that gazed out at you with appealing wisdom, were an amazing, gentian blue.
Mark had succeeded in portraying her poignant beauty—tears behind her eyelids, laughter behind the tears. He had painted the enchantment of youth; revealed youth's fine essence of courage and confidence.
For one long breath, Gay stood reveling in the exclamations of delight and spontaneous pleasure that broke from every beholder of that portrait. Mark Vance had made a sensation. He had painted his name in Detroit. He would be talked about successfully.
"Gay Elwell!" Marian Wilson, tall, willowy, distinctive in severe white satin, had spied her, and catching her by the hands hailed her with a delightful cordiality.
From then on, Gay shared honors with Mark and Charlotte Vance. They introduced her all about, and Gay—to the accompaniment of muted strains from the stringed orchestra, the soft tinkle of tea cups, and the endless buzz of conversation—talked with everyone who claimed her attention, while the back of her mind was puzzling where the "Rankela" party was keeping itself.
At that precise moment, Doctor Wilson, with Charlie Pennell trotting at his heels, entered the studio, and made slow progress through the crush toward the Vances and Gay.
Later when the doctor was telling them some incident about the yacht trip, punctuated by his own hearty laughter and occasional facetious corrections from Mr. Pennell, Gay saw a well-known foursome drift in together.
Peggy, in her favorite yellow, laughing rather noisily, refusing to break arms, even in the doorway, with Breck—who was handsomer than ever, Gay noted with his deep sun-tan accentuating his blonde hair and blue eyes.
Behind them Grace Larimore, exotically brilliant in a chartreuse gown, and escorted by Wayne Adams.
For once, Peggy greeted Gay pleasantly, then with a soft, stary glance at Breck, observed, "The picture really looks like her, doesn't it, darling? Let's date Mark right now for a sitting. Of course not, silly—not together! But you in your flying suit—you look so adorable in those funny clothes—and me—"
Gay, remembering the details of her last encounter with Breck, was highly amused by his brief nod and careless, "How are you?" as he moved away, all lover-like attention to Peggy.
Grace had taken on added we—but Wayne's face, even in his deepened bronze, looking hollow-cheeked, Gay was thinking, when that couple succeeded in joining the group that still lingered about her.
The air of complete understanding between Grace and Wayne brought a painful tightness to Gay's throat. Then she stormed inwardly at herself. She had every reason to believe that their engagement would soon be announced. Jean had gathered that item of social interest in the usual grape-vine way, from Mrs. Larimore's maid.
Grace paused only long enough to remark sweetly, "You ought to scratch Mark Vance's eyes out, Miss Elwell. That picture makes you look years older—don't you think so, Wayne?"
An indifferent shrug answered her. With hardly a glance at the portrait he said, "I'm no judge of pictures." Then he looked toward Gay and with a lack of expression in his voice that told of his complete disregard of her, said, "Nice to see you again." With Grace's heavily ringed hand on his arm, he joined Peggy and Breck.
Though she was the center of that gay gathering, Gay felt an overwhelming sensation of being utterly desolate. Where was Christian? Surely he was coming to the tea! Didn't she matter to anyone?
She was smiling faintly at the dull joke of some pompous little man from whose clutches she couldn't for the moment escape, but her eyes had flown to the corsage of roses and forget-me-nots, which she had placed on a table, below her portrait. When Christian came—Could she put them on?
The significance that would lie behind that simple gesture of pinning on his corsage, made her heart beat frantically, and her hands felt icy cold.
The tea was almost over, and a mere handful of guests still loitered about the studio, when Peggy suddenly attracted attention by raising her hand in imitation of a traffic officer: "Red light, everybody. I guess we're all friends here—and of course it isn't officially announced yet, but—" she broke into confused laughter, and she and Breck kissed.
Over the babble of congratulations and teasing, Gay caught a drift of chatter.
"You're sitting for Mark, Peggy? I've made an appointment, too!" Gay half turned, and saw Grace, her arms about the young fiancée. "And I suppose you'll be dashing to New York soon, to start your trousseau. Perhaps we can plan to go together. I—The rest of Grace's words were lost in her outburst of self-conscious laughter.
Looking away, Gay met the eyes of Wayne Adams. He had paused in the act of lighting a cigarette at one of the tall candles, which had burned down to a small, guttering flame. His eyes were the eyes of a complete stranger.
He'd look at me with more expression if I were something at the zoo," Gay told herself, wounded beyond bearing, and tears of mingled hurt and rage blinding her, she walked straight into the arms of Christian Scott, who was advancing across the studio with profuse apologies for his tardiness.
Gay shuddered as for an instant he held her pressed closely against him. Then she took herself sharply in hand. "I walked into his arms. It's a sign," she thought, and forced herself to smile up into his eyes.
"I've been waiting for you, Christian."

Poems That Live

THE RAINY DAY
The day is cold, and dark, and dreary;
It rains, and the wind is never weary;
The vine still clings to the moldering wall,
But at every gust the dead leaves fall,
And the day is dark and dreary.
My life is cold, and dark, and dreary;
It rains, and the wind is never weary;
My thoughts still cling to the moldering past,
But the hopes of youth fall thick in the blast,
And the days are dark and dreary.
Be still, sad heart! and cease repining;
Behind the clouds is the sun still shining;
Thy fate is the common fate of all,
Into each life some rain must fall,
Some days must be dark and dreary.
Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

GIANTS MEET CUBS AND CARDINALS IN FIVE GAMES; TITLE HANGS IN BALANCE

HUBBELL FACES CHICAGO SQUAD IN FIRST FRAY

Brooklyn Comedy Outfit May Upset Apple Cart With Five Tilts to Play

SCHEDULE FAVORED TERRY

St. Louis to Play Double Bill Sunday Afternoon

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(UP)—The question of whether the New York Giants can stand prosperously is up for settlement today as the National League leaders open their major bid for the championship in a four-day stretch in which their challengers, the Chicago Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals, will demand satisfaction five times.

Having quaffed frequently the wine of success since their mid-July drive to the fore, the Giants have tasted even more deeply since ousting the Cards from the leadership two weeks ago. Now there is a question whether they have partaken too frequently and too deeply. The answer will be known after they engage the Cubs today and tomorrow and the Cards in a double header Sunday and a single on Monday.

Must Face Dodgers
If the Giants can withstand this challenge and maintain their 3½ game margin over St. Louis, they should be in a position to smash their way to the pennant, although they still have five games with the Brooklyn Dodgers, and nothing gives the Flatbushers more pleasure than to knock the Manhattanites out of a race toward the end of the season.

The coming five games between the three flag contenders is fraught with possibilities. The Giants can wind up no worse than a second place tie with the Cubs—a game and a half behind the Cardinals, and that is conditional on their loss of all five games, which does not seem probable with Manager Bill Terry's great screwballer, Carl Hubbell, at his top form of the season.

Hubbell is scheduled to start against Chicago today, and if Terry's other hurlers are battered

Great Britain to Hail Harvard's 300th Year in CBS Ocean Relay Sunday Afternoon

MANY SPEAKERS TO BE INCLUDED IN CEREMONIES

Lois January, Experienced, to Be Guest Star for Ballew

Great Britain's congratulations to Harvard University on the 300th anniversary of its founding by John Harvard, scholarly British emigrant to the American Colonies, will be heard over the WABC-Columbia network in a special broadcast from Stratford-on-Avon, England on Sunday, September 13, from 12:45 to 1:00 p. m. EST.

Distinguished speakers will address their American audience from historic Harvard House, birthplace and home of John Harvard's mother. The Tudor structure, built in 1569 by Thomas Rogers, Harvard's grandfather, and restored with American funds by Marie Corelli, famous novelist, will invoke the atmosphere in which young John Harvard on a visit to his grandparents supposedly met Shakespeare. The house is now much frequented by Harvard graduates abroad.

Speakers on the program include Sir Brumwell Thomas, architect; Robert H. Hutchinson, American author, and D. H. Wills, Commonwealth Fellowship student. Greeting to Harvard as cultural tie between the two nations will be given by representatives of London's Harvard Club, the American University Union, the British-American Phi Beta Kappa, and Oxford and Cambridge Universities.

LOIS JANUARY HEARD

Lois January is only 22 years old but already she has started six separate and distinct careers—as a singer of popular songs, as an operatic singer, as a feature player in motion pictures, as a producer of her own radio shows, as a professional dancer and as a linguist. She speaks, Spanish, Italian and German in addition to English.

She comes to Shell Chateau as Smith Ballew's guest star for the broadcast over an NBC red network on September 19 at 8:30 p. m. (EST) when she will sing several popular songs with Victor Young's orchestra.

Miss January says her ambition is not to stick to any one thing, but to follow a career in all fields in which she has started and to be reasonably successful in all of them.

Born in McAllen, Texas, she took her present name from the family name of Janvier, French for January. She began studying to be a singer when only a little girl and also took up dancing. When she was thirteen she moved to Miami, Florida, and studied dancing under Ruth St. Denis, and made her first appearance with Jan Garber's orchestra at the Coral Gables Hotel as a guest artist in a dancing act. Her vocal teacher, Madam Peterson, who began training her as a child, followed her from Texas to Florida, and later to Hollywood where Miss January attended the Virgil Junior High School and later the Marlborough School for Girls.

She made her first professional appearance at the Pasadena playhouse. After some stage training in the little theatre movement, her work at Pasadena drew the attention of Carl Leammie, Jr., who signed her for Universal pictures where she played for a year and a half and then played leads in numerous independent motion picture productions. In motion pictures Miss January, besides acting straight roles, has also done comedy, dancing and singing.

ant governor, will be the convention's permanent chairman.

West Talks at 3
West's keynote speech was to be delivered at 3 p. m. after which the convention will recess until tonight, when the resolutions committee will report.

Sen. Barkley and Gov. Davey will speak tonight, along with other candidates for state offices.

Gov. Davey's talk was expected to be one of the most pointed of his campaign in view of the invective directed at him yesterday by Bricker.

"The real issue of this campaign is a fumbling, stumbling governor in collusion with the most unscrupulous politician who ever staggered across a hotel lobby," Bricker shouted.

Republican allies of Bricker said he was referring to Poulson when he said "unscrupulous politician." Bricker was ad libbing when he uttered these words because they were not in his prepared text.

A bit of color was added to the Democratic gathering today when the Jefferson county delegation led John F. Nolan's pet donkey through hotel lobbies.

The convention delegates will select one presidential elector for each congressional district and one for each of Ohio's congressional-at-large and U. S. senators.

ing in belligerent countries, must do so at their own risk.

Both the president and Hull repeatedly have declared that this government is not obligated to protect nationals who refuse opportunity to leave Spain, if it means risking other American lives.

Removal of American warships was accelerated by the recent incident involving the U. S. Destroyer Kane. The ship was bombed on Aug. 30 by an unidentified airplane off the Spanish coast. The Kane fired on the attacking plane with its anti-aircraft gun. Officials here were fearful that if U. S. ships remained in those waters another and possibly more serious incident might occur.

Ready for Emergency
The ships will not be brought home immediately. They will stand by in neutral ports for possible further assistance to Americans in Spain, but will go again into Spanish waters only on the call of American diplomatic or consular officers.
